

strong desire and ambition put on by the company. If you get way down deep in this beautiful girl's confidence, she may tell you just how much she loves baseball, riding, driving, sewing and swimming. She is very likely to be quite anxious in informing you that she never could bear geometry and Latin, and hates the sight of grammar. Nevertheless she finished high school ahead of a lot of other young folks who make much more show of "flitting." "As a little girl," Prind says, "I delighted to go to a moving picture theater, invest a nickel, go in and then stay for three or four exhibitions of the same pictures. I just ate them up."

"My ability, whatever there may be of it, is hereditary, I believe. Both my parents were artistic - painter and singer. When I left school there seemed to be only two doors open to me - the stage, the other an office. I couldn't stand the thought of an office. My love of the pictures was still as strong as ever," and so I've here."

All sorts of people from all parts of the country want Prind Prind's photograph, and so many would-be suitors and admirers of her beauty it's a wonder she isn't vain. If she is no one could ever guess it.

ODD NEWS

Young Indianapolis man married his stepmother because of father's continual reprobation.

Students at Colgate university have started up wireless plant to get football scores.

Budding confidence in San Francisco finally held out to apply to shorts of home at ball park.

Brand of controversy has been started in Berlin and its name is Handschuh der Hitlerfamilie.

Concerned board of health will give $100 in prizes to the boys starting their first day this summer.

Miss Emma Blue went to a Columbus garage to pay her bill. When he told her how much it was, she dropped dead.

South Carolina man caught greedy eagle on fish hook. The man had just hooked the fish, which looked good to the eagle.

Sultan of Turkey has agreed to send a Mahratta professor to the Philippines to teach Moslems that it is wrong to kill Christians.

Actor of the Anna Walker, 34, buried in Boston cemetery. Were sent there from Peoria, by parcel post.

Vincent Astor has donated $5,000 to a painter capable of doing work of $2,000 on his track farm at Hinsdale, N. Y.

Family cat at Murphyboro, Ill., has adopted four baby squirrels and nurses them with her kittens.

Murphyboro is a real queer burg. A man there caught eight young lions and his family cat adopted seven.

Another Murphyboro man owns a calf who has but one foreleg. He can keep up with other calves in a race.

A 15-year-old Murphyboro boy has lost the use of one leg as result of bug running over it.

Every day for three weeks an old Murphyboro hen has laid an egg three inches long.

We don't know whether the trouble is with Murphyboro or with the newspaper correspondents down there.

English sparrows got into the habit of eating tobacco crumbs at Tacoma, Wash., during the winter and now refuse anything but cigar and cigarette butts.

A newly married pair had escaped from their demonstrative friends and were on the way to the station when the carriage stopped. The bridegroom looked out of the window impatiently. "What's the matter, sir?" he called. "The horse has cast a shoe, sir," was the reply. "Great Scott," groaned the bridegroom, "even the horses?"